85

At a meeting of the Faculty of the Massachusetts Agricultural College held April 6th, 1895, it was voted:—

I. That increased responsibility for attendance of students upon class exercises be assumed by each professor.

II. That this fact be constantly insisted upon, that all excuses are from attendance and not from assigned work, and that frequent absences, even though excused, may affect the class rank of the student. Absences from laboratory or from field work will be regarded in determining such class rank.

III. That excuses from church or chapel shall be granted or disallowed by the President: all others, by the instructor in charge.

IV. That excuses for absence shall be presented to the instructor before such absence. If this should be impossible, then the student shall present his excuse at the earliest possible time thereafter.

V. That all excused absences be reported at the end of the term to the registrar; and each unexcused absence be reported to the President within twenty-four hours from the time the instructor declares it unexcused.

VI. That we commend to the careful consideration of the Faculty the fact that the regular attendance of Faculty and students upon college duty is indispensable to the successful working of the system now proposed and to the promotion of the highest interests of the college.

VII. That a copy of the recommendations now abopted be furnished to each member of the Faculty.

of study. Reports were read by Professors Warner, Brooks, Wellington, Mills and Maynard. A general discussion followed, the prevalent sentiment of which was that the present course of study ought to be preserved in its essential elements; that the standard of admission to college should, if possible, be raised; that the English course might be improved; that so far as possible the studies in each department should be continuous, in as much as a long break causes the student to forget what he has learned; that students already are perplexed and embarrassed by the multiplicity of studies; that it would be advisable to provide opportunities for post graduate study leading to a higher degree. Various suggestions were offered; that German should be substituted for Latin; that Electives be granted to the Seniors in the departments of Chemistry, Agriculture, Horticulture and Mathematics; that while these were allowed, the students should not be permitted to neglect mental science, political economy and constitutional history. But the discussion proved difficult in the way was the lack of time for any student to do the work planned. Finally it was voted that a committee of three be appointed to revise the schedule of the course of study. It was voted that the committee be appointed by the Chairman. The following members of the committee were then appointed, Profs Fernald, Mills & Brooks.
